

Dr. Gervasi graduated from Southeastern College of Osteopathic Medicine (now NSU) and did his post graduate training at Universal Medical Center in Broward County, Florida. After ten years in private practice, he joined Florida Community Health Centers, Inc as their Chief Medical Officer where he continues working with the underserved. In January of 2011, he assumed the position of President and Chief Executive Officer of that organization. He is certified in Health Care Quality Management by the American Board of Quality Assurance and Utilization Review Physicians, with sub-specialty certifications in risk management and patient safety. Dr. Gervasi has received the Samuel L. Salman, D.O. Award for General Practice through Nova Southeastern University where he also serves as Clinical Associate Professor. Dr. Gervasi has chaired and served on many local, state and national committees, including the eight-state Southeast Healthcare Consortium, the Clinician's Network of the Florida Association of Community Health Centers, The Florida Chronic Disease Prevention Coalition ,and the Florida Diabetes Alliance. He has consulted for numerous practices and he tours the country lecturing on risk management and quality improvement, and giving his customer service presentation to health care organizations as well as other types of businesses.